ANYTHING SWEET, ANYTHING SAVORY, ANYTHING DELICIOUS!
All you can eat sushi, farmer's market fresh fruit and veggies, snacks on demand—the list goes on. You can also thank the local Illium Cafe, who cater our dinners, for your next mouthwatering Instagram post #gourmet

CHAMPIONS ARE READERS
With the largest sorority philanthropy in the nation, Pi Beta Phi is recognized for its success in promoting literacy. Our chapter loves collecting books, reading to children, and hosting our fundraiser—Mr. RPI.

NEW SCHOOL YEAR, NEW STUDY TIPS
"Studying doesn't feel like work when its with your sisters"
"Skippy Jar prizes make getting up for class worth it"
"Back work—it's a beautiful thing"

LET'S GET DOWN TO BUSINESS
From working on campus to across the country, we boast an impressive network of contacts and recommendations. This summer alone, our sisters interned at Google, WebMD, and Mount Sinai to name a few.

OUR TITLES SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES
Greek Lip Sync 2013: best choreography, Miss RPI title for the 4th consecutive year, multiples elected Class Council members, and top RPI athletes for volleyball, cross country, track, soccer, tennis, and lacrosse.

8 SHERRY ROAD IS OUR HOME
Located 300 feet (or a two minute walk!) from campus, home is incredibly close to all academic buildings and dorms. We are grateful for the safety and convenience of our proximity that lets us hit that snooze button, squeeze in naps between classes, and run back if we forget an assignment!

HOW TO JOIN

WE TOO, WERE ONCE IN YOUR SHOES

Recruitment is scary, recruitment is weird, and recruitment happens in the blink of a mascara-ed eye!

We want to make your recruitment process as enjoyable as possible. So let's get started:

IMAGINE WEAR

This is your chance to really envision yourself amongst your potential sisters.

Look for role models and a support system that you can depend on throughout your college career and an environment that will foster your growth.

Prioritize recruitment with gleaning a true picture of the house you want to join by inquiring subjects that matter most. We suggest:

1. Sisterhood events
2. Big/Little relationships
2. Financial information**
3. Life at the house
4. Balancing academics,extracurriculars, and Pi Phi, —the three very much build off eachother!

It's the first day of recruitment and you have no idea what to wear.

Step 1: Don't freak out!
Step 2: Wear what makes you comfortable!
Step 3: If that advice didn't cut it... dress to impress!

Combining the nerves of meeting new people with the anxiety of walking in your most painful heels can quickly lead to an unpropitious situation.

Overcome those nerves with your greatest weapons: personal flair and comfort. Dress to the nines with an ensemble of your favorite pants, dresses, flats, or wedges, as long as... you're comfortable!

TALK EAT

Elevator-pitch: recruitment style!

The best advice we can offer is to be yourself, filtered to a PG-rated business-casual environment.

With the short amount of time we share, we can only learn so much from hearing about how your classes are going and what major you're in. Tell us more!

Do portray your interests, your style, your humor, and your quirks. We want to get to know you for who you are and help you find your perfect house.

Our sisters are human, too. We don't expect perfection from you. So relax and enjoy the ride!

Juices, hors d'oeuvres, baked goods! Oh my!

There will be heaps of snack-foods and beverages offered to you throughout the weekend.

Eat to your heart's content, but if your nerves are anywhere near ours, we understand if you accept a cake pop out of courtesy and simply allow the edible microglitter sprinkles sit pretty in your hand while you prioritize mingling.

However, know that we will gladly join you in taking that 5th piece of candy or mini hotdog.

We love food, too.

**Greek life can be expensive. All Greek houses have costs of membership, known as dues, which go towards national organization fees, operating costs, and event funding. Dues are historically higher the first semester you join and significantly decrease thereafter. For example, Pi Phi's new member dues are $800, but dip down roughly to $400 depending on whether you live-in or not . We encourage you to educate yourself on the cost of joining and continuing membership for every house you talk to. Don't be afraid to ask questions; we have answers: payment plans and scholarships!

If you have more questions, we encourage you to reach out to our RPI's Panhellenic Council they are your resource for unbiased guidance and support!
